Duke of Cambridge, Cousin of Victoria, Dies in the Fullness of Years. (By Associated Press.)
LONDON, March 17.—/The Duke of Cambridge died at 10:35 o'clock this morning. He was a cousin of the late Queen

Victoria, and was born March 26, 1810.

ANSWERS SUMMONS

AGED NOBLEMAN

The Duke died peacefully at Gloucester House, his Gorgian residence on Park King Edward and Queens Afexaudra had been constant visitors to the sick room, while the Duke's sons, Admiral and Colonel Fitzgeorge, were almost incessartly at his bedside. cessarily at his bedside.

It is expected the remains of the Duke will be buried at Kew, An imposing military display will be made at the funeral. The death of the Duke necessitates the postponement or cancellation of all royal functions, as the court will go into mourning for several weeks. The Kirg and Queen went to Gloucester House this afternoon to offer their personal condolence to the relatives of the Duke. It is not generally known to the present generation that the Duke of Cambridge's wife was a burlesque actress and dancer ramed Farelscooler. She was very well known in 1840 or thereabouts, and made a great sensation playing in burlesque at the Lyceum Theatre. She died in 1890. Neither the peerage nor other reference books martion her marriage, which was not recognized officially by Queen Victoria, although the latter visited Mrs. Fitzgeorge. The Duke of Cambridge is supposed to have been wealthy. On the death of his father Parliament gave the Duke an allowance of $60,000 per annum. As commarder-in-chief the Duke received a salary of $22,500 until 1887, and thereafter $33,160 yearly. As colonel-in-chief of the Grenalder Guards the Duke re-It is expected the remains of the Duke
